

St. Francis Heart Center

Premier cardiac care, available across Long Island

When a heart attack occurs, minutes count.

That's why Catholic Health has moved St. Francis Heart Center beyond its original footprint, placing our award-winning cardiac services across Long Island. We're still anchored at St. Francis Hospital & Heart Center in Roslyn, but now St. Francis Heart Center is also available at:

- Good Samaritan Hospital in West Islip
- Mercy Hospital in Rockville Centre
- St. Catherine of Siena Hospital in Smithtown

And, later in 2021, St. Joseph Hospital in Bethpage.

St. Francis Heart Center is an international leader in interventional cardiac procedures, recognized for excellence in cardiology and heart surgery by U.S. News & World Report more times than any other hospital on Long Island.

If you suspect a heart attack, call 911. Remember, ambulances are equipped with defibrillators, which can save lives. Also, most Emergency Medical Services ambulances carry 12-lead EKGs, allowing them to transmit results to our hospitals electronically while in route. This means St. Francis Heart Center can assemble your treatment team and equipment before you arrive.

Minimally Invasive = Faster Recoveries

St. Francis Heart Center leads the way in minimally invasive cardiac procedures—including valve replacement, angioplasty, electrophysiology and heart failure treatment, inclusive of ventricular assisting devices. As a result, our patients recover faster and return to their lives sooner.
